WHAT IS GANODERMA?

Ganoderma has been known for over 4000 years as the most prized of all herbs (the King of Herbs). Today and over the past 20 years in Asia it has actually been used in hospitals for supporting health. This ancient Chinese remedy is technically considered a mushroom however it is a special type of woody mushroom that naturally grows on aged trees and takes one year to fully mature a single fruiting body. The main life cycle of the herb is not visible outside the tree but within the bioactive cells contains hundreds of immune-supporting polysaccharide complexes as well as antioxidants. For this reason it is considered to be the world's number one antioxidant herb. Success By Health has discovered how to capture the full potential of Ganoderma, the King of Herbs.
